To Whom It May Concern:

This letter is in support of Craig Mautner as an outstanding systems developer.

Craig joined my development team to assist with a difficult microcode development project. The project needed a skilled person to help with the programming load in order to protect the project schedule. Craig had to come up to full speed as a microcode systems programmer virtually instantly in order to make the timely contributions that the project needed. He accomplished this difficult feat and beyond, writing specialized coding tools in addition to fulfilling his programming assignments. During testing, his results were as good as or better than that of other programmers who had considerably more experience with the tools and processor.

The project completed on time and under budget, due in large measure to his efforts.

I wholeheartedly recommend Craig Mautner as a skilled systems developer.

Yours truly,
